Re: Latest constitution/bylaws revision - meeting with Brent Brown
Date: Thursday November 15, 1990

Attached are notes from the November 14th meeting, a letter from me to Brent Brown and the latest constitution revision.

Good news! I met with last night Brent and informed him about our recommendation. He has agreed to accept the new association as part of University Relations. He also has told us to proceed on the planned schedule.

George met with me today. He had a conflict and apologized for missing yesterday's meeting. He suggested that we eliminate the Executive Committee based on the concept that there are only 14 members of the board (12 elected, 2 ex-officio non-voting as we agreed yesterday) which will meet monthly. Therefore there is no need for an executive committee. I talked with Gale and he agreed so the constitution and bylaws have been changed to reflect the omission of the executive committee.

Gale will prepare a transition statement and will also edit the attached draft.

Next week is Thanksgiving week and on the 26th I leave for Hong Kong and Japan and will return on December 3rd. Therefore, we will not have a chance to meet again until after the December 6th faculty emeriti meeting. I suggest we schedule our next meeting on Wednesday December 12 at noon at Monti’s. Please call me if this is not a good time.

This memo is a follow up to our meeting last night. I'll repeat some of what I discussed with you last night.

Yesterday I met with Anne Pittman, Gale Richards and Dean Smith about the ASU Retirement Association. Creasman was still in the mountains and Morrill couldn't make it but met me today and made some pertinent suggestions.

We worked out the final bugs from the Constitution and Bylaws and I have redrafted the documents (attached). Gale may want to make some minor changes but the major problems have been resolved.

We discussed what kind of an organization this should be. It was agreed to get started we should NOT incorporate but that the association should be attached to your office. As you agreed last night this means a commitment from you of budget, secretarial support, an office and a University Relations liaison person. You asked, "how much would you be asked to contribute to the budget?" At this time I can't tell you but I would guess somewhere in the vicinity of $10,000 per fiscal year. To get started we would probably need a couple of thousand between January 1991 and July 1991. Most of the budget would be for mailing, printing and office supplies. I think the Association would find people to volunteer to work on the newsletter and to staff an office. If we are successful we will have to meet with you to find space, etc. George has suggested that the administration consider having a Retirement Center within the Personnel Department where the Association could be located. Article II of the bylaws includes on the Board an ex-officio without vote representative from University Relations. The group also suggested a similar representative from the Academic Vice President's office. It was also strongly suggested that President Coor be informed of our recommendation and your agreement to have the Association as part of University Relations. His support is needed if the formation of the association is to be successful.

The next step is to mail the proposed constitution and bylaws to the faculty emeriti and then make a presentation at their December 6th luncheon and request a vote of confidence. Anne and Gale believe that we will receive nearly unanimous support. If that is so then Gale will present the method of transition from our present committee to an elected board.

The six of us plus a representative from University Relations, the Provost and the Faculty Senate will compose the transition committee. Interim officers will be elected. The board will solicit membership to begin July 1, 1991...dues will be $10. Dean Smith and I will attempt to find 50 or more retired staff whom we can inform about the proposed association. I will also try to get Cathcart to put something in Insight and send the papers a release.

The last step would be to have a membership meeting in April to get a permanent organization up and running.

Now that I have your approval, I will notify the group that we can move forward. Would you like to meet with us (or me) to wrap this up? Please let me know as soon as possible. I leave for Hong Kong/Japan on the 26th so we would have to meet before then.
